ST. BENEDICT'S COLLEGE

Conducted by Benedictine Fathers, was founded in the year 1859. It is incorporated under the laws of the State of Kansas, and empowered to confer academic honors.

The object of this Institution is to impart to young men a thorough moral and mental training, so as to fit them for any position in life.

The College is situated in the northeastern part of Atchison, on a thirty acre plat of ground, which extends to the river bank. The site is elevated and commands an excellent view of the Missouri River and of the surroundings; the play ground is quite large and well shaded, and is really a delightful place to spend the hours of recreation. The building has been put up with an eye to healthfulness, comfort and safety. There are thirty apartments in the college building, utilized as study-rooms, class-rooms and dining-rooms, besides a large play hall on the ground floor, and three large dormitories, all of which are roomy and well ventilated by air-flues; the underground drainage system is very complete, and the margin of danger from infected water, defective drainage, close and unwholesome rooms, and especially from fire, is either entirely removed or reduced to a minimum. There is a stand pipe, with hose and connections in each story, besides a fire plug outside of the building; but what is better, there are no defective flues built by contract, as none are needed. The college and monastery buildings are both heated with steam on the low pressure system, and the chimneys from the kitchen and the boiler-room are veritable factory stacks. In addition to this, the college is provided with a large stairway of brick and stone, which can neither burn nor melt; it extends from the footing-course to the comb of the roof, and communicates with each floor by double acting, fire proof folding doors, and with the outside by a vaulted passage. It will be seen from all this that little has been left undone to ensure the comfort and well-being of the students. The kitchen is in charge of a community of able and experienced Sisters, which is saying for this department all that is necessary.

The College has two distinct libraries, one of which is for the use of the students. The works of the students' library cover nearly every department of science and literature. The current news and literature of the day are supplied by thirty different papers and magazines. This library contains nineteen hundred and thirty volumes, and additions to it are made every year, both by purchase and donation. The College library proper is for the special use of professors, and at present contains seven thousand and five hundred volumes.

The College also possesses quite a little museum of specimens in Natural History. Aside from the importance which researches in Natural History have assumed by the light they have thrown on the past history of our earth and its inhabitants, of its minerals, animals, and plants, Natural History is sufficiently important and interesting in itself to deserve at least the leisure moments at our disposal. There is nothing so little or so apparently trivial in God's grand world but may be made to teach useful lessons, and at the same time become an endless source of pure, interesting and wholesome recreation during our spare hours.

The Herbarium contains about two thousand specimens, all classified and labelled. Ornithology is represented by a large case of mounted birds, in which every order has one or more specimens. The collection is especially interesting as the specimens are mostly Kansas birds, some of which are rare, possibly extinct, at least in their former haunts.

Geology and Paleontology are both fairly represented, the latter by fossils from various sections of the United States, more particularly from our own immediate surroundings. The mineralogical specimens are quite numerous Besides a number of the rarer and more precious minerals, the museum contains fully half a ton of lead, zinc, copper, silver, and other useful ores.

Ethnology, herpetology, entomology, and other branches also come in for a little corner in the museum. In short there is hardly a department, the study of which could not be fairly entered upon with what material has found its way into the museum during the last thirty years. These specimens are being added to from various sources almost daily. The students themselves have added not a little to the collection, and there is hardly a day on which they return from a walk but the one or the other has picked up by the wayside some interesting specimen.

GENERAL REMARKS.

Students are divided into three departments: The Ecclesiastical, the Commercial, and the Minim.

Only such boys are admitted to the ECCLESIASTICAL department as intend to study for the priesthood. They have special instructions and exercises adapted to the vocation to which they aspire. They must also make it a special point to execute with precision, gravity, and decorum, whatever pertains to divine service. To this end, they must practice the Gregorian Chant, attend the instructions in ceremonies, and take part in the various ecclesiastical solemnities of the year. In the Ecclesiastical department are the students of the Diocesan Preparatory Seminary. Father Director is ex-officio the Prefect.

The students of the ECCLESIASTICAL and the COMMERCIAL COURSE are divided according to age into a Junior and a Senior department, each of which has its own study hall.

The MINIM department is for boys from eleven to fourteen years of age.

The Academic year consists of two sessions of five months each. The first session begins on the first Tuesday of September, and ends on the last day of January; the second begins on the first of February, and ends in the last week of June.

An examination of one week's duration is held before Christmas, and another at the end of the school year, and reports are sent to the parents or guardians three times during the year, to inform them of the conduct and improvement of their sons or wards.

Every student must be provided with one Sunday and two every day suits of clothes, six linen or cotton and three flannel shirts, eight pairs of socks, six pocket handkerchiefs, two pairs of boots or shoes, one pair of light shoes or slippers, two cotton clothes-bags, four napkins, four towels, and all articles necessary for toilet. Linen must be marked with the owner's name in full.

The school year begins with a solemn High Mass in honor of the Holy Ghost, at which the professors and the students assist, to invoke the blessing of Heaven on the work in hand. Thus student and professor alike enter upon their task with the special assistance of the "Father of Light"; and the success of the work as a whole, may be looked forward to with confidence.

Experience teaches that the students who are promptly on hand at the beginning of the school year, show the most uniform and satisfactory progress during the course. And this stands to reason. Each class has its definite work to perform, to accomplish which it must go right on; and, since the pupil's success depends on his keeping up with the class work, it is important that he be on hand at the start. When it is considered that each day sees the class advance a step further than it was the day before, that satisfactory progress depends on the students' thoroughly mastering each task, and on their keeping well abreast of one another, it will be seen how important it is that the whole class start together. Those who join the class when it is already on the way, but too often interfere for awhile, with the smooth and steady advancement of the whole, and are, for the time being, a drawback to their classmates and an extra burden to their professors. We cannot urge this point too persistently; and we would, therefore, impress upon all who intend to continue their patronage, that they fail not to be on hand when the class work begins. Their own interests and the progress of the class require it, and late comers ought not to expect that, for their accommodation, their class-fellows be checked in their onward course. In the face of all this, it looks unreasonable, that parents should ask a reduction (as they sometimes do) from the regular charges, when their sons enter days, and even weeks, after the classes are under way; it would be more nearly right if a bonus were given instead.

Although it is so desirable that all students enter on their studies at the beginning of the first session, still admission will be given at any time. Pupils thus arriving during the course of the school year will, on examination, be assigned to the classes for which their previous studies have qualified them; but in no case will a student be received for the First Latin Class after September 30, unless he is well able to advance with that class.

It is the wish of the college officials that students remain at the college during the Christmas holidays. However, should any one obtain leave of absence, he must return in time to attend the class call at 7:30 a. m., January 5th. It happens not seldom that the one or the other is persuaded to stay away a day or two longer, who thus, for the empty gratification of another day's absence from class duty and college discipline, sacrifices his hard-earned chances of merited distinction. It is very injurious to the unformed character of the young to prevail upon them by false or trivial reasons to disregard rules. Young men are thus taught to disregard conscience, and, naturally enough, become unreliable. Parents who insist on their sons' strict observance of every rule, very materially assist teachers in the education of their children. Should they object to any rule, they will confer with the proper official of the college, and, in the meantime, require their sons to submit, and not allow them to be influenced by artful companions, who, under the cloak of friendship, lead the young from duty.

The Easter holidays begin Wednesday noon of Holy Week. During this time students will not be permitted to leave the college. An absence from college for a few days is, as a rule, productive of no good. This is a lesson taught by experience, the exceptions to which are but few. Several days come and go before outside impressions are wiped away, and the student can apply his mind without distracting thoughts. During the meantime, however, class exercises go on as if no interruption had occurred; his preparation is not thorough, he becomes sensible of a falling-off in his standing, becomes impatient and dissatisfied with himself, and possibly may become so discouraged as to lose all taste for his books. Even supposing this to be an extreme case the possibility of such a pass, and not simply a bare possibility either, ought to be sufficient to determine parents not to ask or permit their sons to spend these holidays at home, especially when it is remembered that what good, if any, may result from a flying visit during these days very seldom counterbalances the evil that may and does follow in its wake. Besides, the latter half of Holy Week commemorates events of the highest importance to the world. The Catholic Church enacts these events before us in unusual and impressive ceremonies. There are few places in the West, except Cathedral Churches, where the ceremonies of Holy Week can be carried out to the extent that they are in the church of the abbey. From the first office of the Tenebræ on Wednesday to the Solemn Pontifical Vespers on the evening of Easter Sunday, the rich and impressive ceremonial of the Catholic Church is observed in all its solemn grandeur, and the students are required to be present at these, and to take part in them from first to last. We would consider ourselves wanting in a most important particular in the education of Catholic youth, did we not avail ourselves of every opportunity to make them acquainted with all the rites and ceremonies of the church, all the more so, as there is so much lamentable ignorance with regard to them, even among otherwise well instructed Catholics. We cannot, therefore, be indifferent as to whether the students be present or absent during the ceremonies of Holy Week, but must insist on their presence, as a thorough acquaintance with the practices of the church is an integral and most vital part in the education of the Catholic youth.

MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP.

The attention of students is called to the fact that a free scholarship has been founded as a lasting memorial of the fourteen hundredth anniversary of the birth of St. Benedict. It is intended by this foundation to offer some apt, dilligent, and deserving pupil an opportunity of finishing his Classical Course gratis. The privilege of the scholarship is open to students from all quarters, and will be awarded to whoever shall score the highest number of points in a competitive examination. All that desire to avail themselves of this opportunity will please take notice of the following points:

- 1st. Applicants must study with a view to the priesthood.
- 2d. Their conduct must be irreproachable.
- 3d. They must be prepared to enter the Fourth Year of the Classical Course.

All who intend to compete for the scholarship must notify Father Director not later than the 15th of August. On receiving this notice, each applicant will be informed of the day when the competitive examination will be held. The successful candidate will be entitled to free tuition in the Classical Course, and board and lodging for a period of three years.

The next competitive examination for the Memorial Scholarship will be held in August, 1891.

NOTES AND EVENTS.

From the engraving on the preceding page, the reader will obtain a better idea, than from a lengthy description of what a small beginning the College had, and how rapid and healthy its growth has been from the very beginning. More than a quarter of a century has passed since the first steps were taken to lay the foundation of the College. What the building was like then, may be seen from the small engraving in the upper left hand corner. It consisted of two and a half story brick building, thirty by eighty feet, abutting against the small frame parish church. The embryo college was finished in 1859; and though the structure appeared quite large enough for those early unsettled days, on what was then the western frontier, it was not long before it became necessary to enlarge the buildings. Only two years later Father Augustine Wirth, O. S. B., the founder of the College, undertook the erection of an addition. As the small engraving in the upper right hand corner shows, this addition was joined to the east end of the existing building, running southward and parallel to the church. In that condition the building remained until 1866, when the parish had grown to such an extent, that the church was found too small for the accommodation of the parishioners. In the spring of that year, Father Augustine began the erection of a large brick and cut stone church, sixty-four by one hundred and fifty-three feet. The lower left hand figure gives a fair idea of the style and comparative size of the structure. Three years of incessant labor were required to place the massive structure in a sufficiently fair way of completion to be dedicated and opened for the use of the congregation. The College went on with its educational work in its usual, quiet way, until the centennial year dawned upon the country.

Until this time the community of the religious who conduct the College had no really permanent existence in Kansas, nor had provision to this end been made. About all that had been done was to secure an efficient corps of professors from St. Vincent Abbey, in Pennsylvania, the Mother house of the Order in the United States. But the College as such was an institution which existed merely from year to year, and might have to close its doors any time that the Mother house should withdraw its aid. This state of affairs, it was seen, must always remain an important element of weakness in the institution, and, to say the least, could not but retard its efficiency, if it did not actually condition its very existence.

To give stability and permanence to the community^o and, consequently, to the College, as also to remove the barriers which heretofore had unavoidably hampered the development of the institution, an effort was made to place the community on a footing that would give it an individual existence, and make it dependent on its own resources. In order to bring about this end, a petition was sent to the ecclesiastical authorities at Rome, with the request that the community, which had until now formal existence only as a Priory, be erected into an Abbey. During the centennial year this request was granted, and the community and the College as well, entered upon a new phase of existence. Rt. Rev. Innocent Wolf was duly elected, confirmed, and installed the first Abbot, and on him, too, devolved the educational charge of the College. Within a few years after, a new system of buildings was erected on a much larger scale, as the older buildings proved entirely inadequate to meet the ever increasing wants. In 1878 the start was made. That fall one section of the new building was under roof, and during the Christmas vacation of that year it was thrown open to the students. The cut in the lower right hand corner shows its location and general appearance. Although this addition nearly doubled the room formerly available for the purpose of the College, it was soon found that full justice could not be done to the growing demands, unless the plan of building was further developed. Accordingly, in 1883, the contract was let for an addition twice the size of the one erected in 1878. In the present stage, therefore, the main College building presents an unbroken front of a hundred and thirty-six feet in length, is fifty-four feet wide, and four stories high. The central cut in the engraving gives a view of the east front, with the church in the rear. The view is taken from the student's ball ground. The right central cut of the engraving is a view of the walk between an alley of trees, leading from the students' entrance to the play grounds. The knoll seen in the background of this cut overlooks the Missouri River and Bottoms for many miles up and down stream, and is the point from which the left central view is taken. The spectator is looking south; before him is the road to the community cemetery, a few rods behind him; while in the distance is seen the railroad and wagon bridge, which spans the Missouri river at the foot of Main Street. From this rapid sketch it will be seen that the career of the College has been a successful one from the beginning, and justifies the most sanguine expectations for the future.

THE FRONTISPIECE.

The reader will gain a more exact idea of the buildings from the frontispiece, facing the title page of this Catalogue. The view here presented shows the group of buildings in detail, and is about that obtained from the bridge which spans the river. The structure in the right of the engraving is the nucleus of the new system, and will require to be flanked by additions to both ends, to give it the size and symmetry which the plans call for.

MT. ST. SCHOLASTICA'S ACADEMY.

On the last page of the Catalogue the reader will find an engraving of Mount St. Scholastica's Academy for young ladies, conducted by the Benedictine Sisters. This superb structure, with the large tract of land on which it is situated, was purchased by the Sisters some years ago. Since that time they have erected another building just south of the one in the cut, which they use as convent for the community, and which is as large as the Academy proper. The east end of the chapel, which forms the south portion of the convent building, can be seen in the engraving. The Sisters and their Academy are altogether independent of the Benedictine Fathers, nor is there any connection or dependence whatever between the two institutions. The object of inserting the Prospectus of the Academy in this Catalogue is to make parents aware of the educational advantage of this city for both their sons and daughters; for undoubtedly, the majority of parents, whose boys and girls attend school away from home, prefer to have them in the same city or neighborhood.

CHRONOLOGICAL EVENTS.

JULY 9. Father Stanislaus Altman was to-day ordained priest. At the same holy mass Rev. Aloysius Bradley was ordained deacon, and Revs Michael Rank and Gregory Neumayer. sub-deacon.

SEPTEMBER 2. Every train entering the Union Depot brought its quota of students. The preliminary examination of new-comers began this afternoon.

SEPTEMBER 4. The merry jingle of the electric bells ushered in the scholastic year of '90-91. A full number was in attendance and everything was soon in regular order.

SEPTEMBER 23. Father Abbot went East in the interest of the Monastery and College; during his absence he will attend the meeting of the Catholic Educators of the United States, convened for the purpose of deciding what steps should be taken, by the Catholic schools, in connection with the World's Fair.

SEPTEMBER 24. Memorable among the free days of each year is Father Director's Namesday. On the eve of the feast, the students, in a body, waited upon the Rev. Director, and in terms of love and devotion presented their congratulations. The halls reechoed with the strains of music discoursed on the occasion by the College Band. The weather was not as favorable as might have been wished, and in consequence the program of out-door amusements was modified.

OCTOBER 11. Professor J. W. Annan gave an entertainment at the College this evening. His lecture on the preservation and cultivation of the vocal organs was listened to with attention. A number of humorous and pathetic recitations elicited rounds of applause.

OCTOBER 20. Owing to the frequent and heavy rains the recently graded base ball diamonds were rendered unfit for play. Through the kindness of Messrs. T. Finnigan, M. Falk, and J. Barry they are again in a proper condition.

OCTOBER 24. The Dramatic Society made its first appearance for the season. The characters for the play were well chosen, and each player sustained his role with credit.

JANUARY 20. A Requiem High Mass was sung to-day in the students' chapel for the repose of the soul of Joseph Hunkey, who died whilst at home during the Christmas Holidays. During the month previous to his departure the deceased had been confined to the infirmary. Thinking that a change would work good results, he summoned all the strength he could command, and departed for home. Only a few days after his leaving the sad intelligence of his death was received. The deceased had been a member of the First Commercial since the beginning of September. Though only a short time in our midst, he had, by his kind and gentle disposition, endeared himself to all his professors and comrades.

JANUARY 27. The semi-annual examinations, which had been in progress during the last six days, closed this afternoon. The results obtained were satisfactory.

JANUARY 30. The annual Retreat of the students conducted by Very Rev. Father Stephen, O. S. B., closed this morning. The conduct of the students during the three days was truly edifying. Unaccustomed to such serious and self-denying work, they nevertheless bore themselves with all becoming reserve. The earnestness and tender pity of the Rev. Father manifested itself in every word that fell from his lips. At early dawn the students repaired to the College chapel, there to assist at the Holy Sacrifice and receive Holy Communion.

FEBRUARY 11. Father Director left this morning for Colorado, where he goes to regain his health. During the last few weeks he had been failing in health, and it was thought that a change of climate would effect a sure and speedy recovery. Rev. Eugene Phelan, O. S. B., was to take the place of Father Gerard.

FEBRUARY 17. This afternoon the students had the pleasure of attending the lecture of Dillon Egan, L. L. D., at the St. Louis Hall. For two hours the lecturer conducted his audience in an interesting and picturesque tour through Ireland. The interest of his lecture was greatly increased by many stereopticon views of the places described.

FEBRUARY 21. The Rt. Rev. Bishop conferred the order of deaconship on Revs Joseph Hudicek, Luke Blahnik, Michael Rank, and Gregory Neumayer.

FEBRUARY 23. Washington's Birthday falling on a Sunday, the celebration was deferred to the 23rd. The day was passed in walks through the neighboring groves, and various amusements on the play grounds. The feature of the day's celebration was the entertainment given in the evening by one of the Senior Literary societies.

MARCH 17. St. Patrick's Day, sacred to the memory of Ireland's people, was fittingly observed. Solemn services in the Abbey church were attended in a body. Field exercises were held on the Seniors' campus during the greater part of the day. The distribution of prizes to the successful contestants in the day's sports took place at 3 o'clock, p. m., in the play hall. In the evening, the faculty and the students assembled to enjoy the literary and musical entertainment prepared for the occasion. Ireland, her saints, heroes, and scholars formed the theme of every essay.

APRIL 6. Very Rev. Father Boniface gave a lecture this evening on "The Monasteries of Great Britain." His subject was beautifully illustrated by many stereopticon views.

APRIL 22. Father Gerard returned from his western trip much improved in health. The news of his arrival spread very quickly, and preparations were soon being made to give him a cordial reception. The service of the band was secured, and all marched in a body to the Rev. Father's room. Celestine Sullivan, in the name of his fellow-students, made the address and extended to the Rev. Father a hearty welcome to the scene of his labors. Father Gerard again holds the position of College Director, and Father Eugene Phelan is Rector.

MAY 26. This day will ever be memorable in the annals of our College, as it records the great event of Father Abbot's Sacerdotal Silver Jubilee. Preparations had been made long in advance for a fitting celebration of the event. The people of the parish had built up the tower of the Abbey-Church, and supplied it with a beautiful peal of four bells. On the day previous to the Jubilee, after the singing of the Vespers, all the inmates of the Monastery and College, together with the Rt. Rev. Prelates, and the Rev. Visiting Clergy, assembled in the study hall and tendered their congratulations, whereupon the presentation of many handsome and costly gifts was made. Among other distinguished visitors were: Rt. Rev. Louis M. Fink, Bishop of Leavenworth; Rt. Rev. Leo Haid, Vicar Apostolic of North Carolina; Rt. Rev. Andrew Hintenach, Archabbot of St. Vincent's Abbey, Pennsylvania; Rt. Rev. Hilary Pfrængle, Abbot of St. Mary's Abbey, New Jersey; Rt. Rev. Bernard Locnikar, Abbot of St. John's Abbey, Minnesota; Rt. Rev. Frowen Conrad, Abbot of the Abbey of Immaculate Conception, Missouri; Rt. Rev. Fintan Mundwiler, Abbot of St. Méimrad's Abbey, Indiana; Rt. Rev.

Nepomucene Jæger, Prior of St. Procop's Priory, Chicago; and many priests of neighboring states.

On the morning of the feast, Father Abbot celebrated Solemn Pontifical High Mass. The music was furnished by a choir of twenty voices accompanied by a full orchestra. Bishop Leo Haid preached the sermon. The large church was crowded as perhaps never before, no room being left vacant even in the aisles. The Church, as well as the College, was profusely decorated with trees, garlands of green flowers, and appropriate transparencies.

In the afternoon the guests were entertained by the Student's Band and the Orchestra, and in the evening all repaired to St. Louis Hall, whither also the citizens had been invited to attend Cardinal Wiseman's drama, "The Hidden Gem," rendered by the students. The costumes used were very rich, and the students well sustained their high reputation as amateur actors. The following is the programme:
